Whitesburg High and Graded School Has Auspicious Beginning

Never in the history of Whitesburg have chances been brighter for a scucessful term of school. Prof. Harris and his able corps of teachers showed every mark of enthusiasm in beginning the term and the students who flocked to the High School building were exultant to the highest degree. Over 270 were enrolled in the various grades and it is be lieved that within the next two weeks over 300 will be in school. As we have often remarked Whitesburg's school is its greatest and most important asset. What it accomplishes this year will not only depend upon its head, Prof. Harris, and his able faculty, but upon the parents and patrons as well. All must pull together and not separate and apart. Let harmony and hard work be the watchword every day in the term.

Drowned

Sunday morning Robert, 19year old son of John H. Cornett of Dry Fork, was drowned in the Northfork at Uz. He left the depot at Uz and walked up the railroad a short distance alone and near the river side. Later in the day his cap was found on the river bank but no one suspicioned that his body was in the water. Till late in the night, however, nothing could be found of him. Then a search was made in the river and his body recovered. The young man was subject to fits and it is believed he had one of them and rolled over the bank into the water. CROSS MOUNTAIN HIGHWAY

ORIGIN-EXTENT-PURPOSE

On May 17, 1920, The Business Men's League of Rogersville, Tenn., were in session and during a road discussion some member called attention to the importance of building a road from Rogersville, Tenn., north across the mountain to Jonesville, Va. a distance of about 35 miles.

A committee was appointed to arrange a conference with the road "Boosters" of Southwest Va. Following this action M. V. Koger and Thos. J. Price, of Rogersville met a number of business men in Big Stone Gap, Va. and affected a temporary organ-

Following this conference a mass meeting was held at Jonesville, Va. June 19. This body effected a complete organization, electing Thos. J. Price, of Rogersville, Tenn. President, and M. Sec'y. The organization was named Virginia-Tennessee Highway Association. Various officers and committees were appointed to carry on the different phases of the work.

EXTENT

Publicity was given the project and it soon developed that towns beyond these limits were interested in the project. Sentiment grew so fast and so strong that Bowling Green as she starts at the project was extended from Rogersville going north via Jonesville, Big Stone Gap, Norton, Va. Jenkins, Pikeville, Ky., to the Ohio river at or near Huntington W. Va., going south via the Lee Highway, Tate Springs to Knoxville, Tenn., and a second route via Morristown and Newport, Tenn.; to Asheville, N.C.

> It is very probable that this road will extend from The Great Lakes on the north to Charleston, S. C., on the South when completed.

PURPOSE

The purpose in view when the project was conceived was to develop the mountain sections thru East Tennessee and Southwest Va. and to give an outlet to the coal regions of Virginia and Kentucky. Also to give the jobbers and manufacturers of East Tenn. an entrance to the coal fields.

The project has grown far beyond expectations of the promoters and we are beginning to realize what the highway will mean to the sections through which it passes.

It crosses the Lee Highway at Rogersville Tenn. The Lee Highway will be open for traffic from Washington to Chattanooga in 1922.

The route selected is the nearest and most practical cross mountain route for the region through which it passes.

There is not a more scenic route to be found.

It passes thru the wealthiest section of the East including the ginia and Kentucky.

This connection with the Ohio

Executive Blames Trouble in West Virginia to Lack of Understanding-Weeks and Pershing Make Brief Speeches.

Washington, Sept. 2.-President Haring, speaking at the opening of the fall term of the Army War college, declared that, "no matter where the best aspirations of the world lead us, there never may be a time without the necessity for armed forces."

The President in his brief address, however, pledged the 200 officers in his audience that during his administration they would never be called to pereform military service "they could not enter into with all their hearts and souls as Americans."

Referring to the situation in the West Virginia coal fields, the President declared:

Declaring that through 4,000 years of pagan history and 2,000 years of Christian civilization, the world only lately had come to a civilized state of armed warfare, the President reiterated that he thought it "perfectly futile to believe that there never may be armed conflicts."

"We of America, without unnecessary boasting," he continued, "have come nearer to civilized warfare than any nation.

Critical Situation.

It is further declared in the statement that "your representatives are convinced that these organizations were never confronted with a more critical situation." It is known the Federated Shop Crafts already have a strike vote in their pocket against the cut in wages last June 30. On September 1 the "big four" brotherhoods will send our a strike vote on the wage question. The rule objected to most by the shopmen is the abolition of overtime for necessary Sunday work when

YANKS TO QUIT GERMANY SOON

American Army Will Be Brought Home After Ratification of Treaty.

START MOVING BEFORE OCT.

Movement Will Complete Final Milltary Act of War Between United States and Germany-U. S. Crossed Rhine Nov. 30, 1918.

Washington, Aug. 29.-The American army will be brought home from Germany immediately upon ratification of the peace treaty.

The senate is expected to act on the treaty as soon as it reconvenes in September. This means the American forces may be moving out of Germany before October 1. To Start Evacuation Soon.

President Harding indicated the evacuation orders would be forwarded to Coblenz instantly after the senate's action. With this in view it is considered likely that preliminary preparations for removal may be started at once. This movement will complete the final military act of the war between the United States and Germany, which lasted four years and six months. During only 19 months of that period were the nations engaged in actual Crossed the Rhine Nov. 30, 1918. The vanguard of the American third army, which formed the occupational force, crossed the Rhine on November 30, 1918, and occupation of the American zone in full force was completed December 15.

The American force has been gradually reduced since early in 1919 until now it consists of less than 12,000 officers and men.

The troops under Major General Dickman were met with indifference by the German population. Little hostility between the conquered people and the American forces has been shown at any time during the long occupation. All provisions were purchased with cash.

Cost Germany $250,000,000. There was no looting when the men entered. The troops at all times have been under orders to rule sternly, but General Pershing in his proclamation said, "No law-abiding person need have any fear.'

Germany owes the United States more than $250,000,000 for maintenance of the troops under the terms of the armistice:

Treaty Job Gratifies Harding. President Harding is greatly pleased with the results of Secretary of State Hughes' negotiations of a peace treaty with Germany. He views the achieve ment not only as a satisfactory set-tlement with Germany but as the best possible solution of the vexed problem produced by the country's rejection of President Wilson's peace program. The treaty with Germany, it was pointed out, achieves the purpose enunciated in the Harding inaugural to disentangle the United States from participation in European affairs of no concern to America. It gives the United States the same status in the war settlement as the allied powers, except as to the League of Nations ! and the political, boundary, and other matters of purely European concern.

WALTER HAGEN COMES BACK

Western Open Golf Golf Event for Second Time-Beats Hutchinson.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 29.-Walter C. Hagen of New York, twice holder of the national open championship, climbed back into the ranks of the titleholders by winning a clean-cut victory in the Western open event at the Oakwood club. His total of 287, made up of superlative rounds of 71, 72, 73 and 71, was five shots ahead of Jock Hutchison of the Glenview club of Chicago, who had 292. It was Hagen's second success in the Western classic, his previous win being at Blue Mound, Milwaukee, in 1916, when with a total of 286 he finished one stroke ahead of Jock Hutchison and George Sargent.

A southwest wind swept the course. The first three holes which had been looked upon as easy fours became likely fives, and other holes presented equal possibilities. The drive and the mashie became a drive and a long iron or two full shots. This in brief is the story of the final 36 holes, when players of desser caliber fell and the champions came to the fore.

The bolsterous breeze changed the whole complexion of the tournament and when Bobby Jones, who was leader at 36 holes, reported with a largesized 83 in the morning, he was virtually out of the running.
